EDITORIAL
BSU Journal of Education
Volume 25, Number 1

It is with great pleasure that we present Volume 25, Number 1 of the BSU Journal of Education—a landmark edition in the history of our publication. This issue, containing twenty-six scholarly articles, marks a significant milestone as the first to be published both in print and online formats, thereby expanding our reach and accessibility to a wider academic audience within and beyond Nigeria.

This transition to dual publication reflects the Journal's commitment to embracing innovation and enhancing the dissemination of knowledge in line with global academic publishing standards. By making the Journal available online, we hope to create greater visibility for the research contributions of our authors and to foster scholarly interaction across diverse educational disciplines.

This edition features contributions from distinguished researchers and emerging scholars whose works address a wide range of issues in education—spanning language education, curriculum innovation, assessment, educational psychology, instructional technology, teacher education, and policy studies. The diversity and quality of these papers reaffirm our mission to promote rigorous research that informs educational practice and policy.

We are particularly delighted to introduce this volume under the leadership of a new Editor, Professor Titus TerverUdu, whose vision, scholarly excellence, and commitment to academic integrity continue to shape the Journal's new direction. The Editorial Board expresses deep appreciation to the Dean of Faculty, Prof. Benjamin Imoko, all reviewers, contributors, and production staff whose dedication made this publication possible.

As we move forward, the BSU Journal of Education remains steadfast in its goal of serving as a credible platform for the advancement of knowledge and the dissemination of research findings that can contribute meaningfully to the improvement of education in Nigeria and globally. We welcome feedback, submissions, and collaborations that will further enrich the quality and impact of future editions.
